

Dear Sirs:

Multiple ownership of stations in the same markets by the large media concerns has nearly ruined Radio. These large companies have homogenized formats, stifled competition and creativity, taken opportunities away from aspiring young and experienced Broadcasters and most importantly, have served to de-localize Radio broadcasting.

Further these large media companies are "in effect" serving their own corporate financial goals at the expense of the public good and the free spirit of competition in the marketplace. As such, these media companies do not operate in the public interest or in the spirit of their broadcast licenses.

The FCC should serve to encourage competition and service to the public in Radio broadcasting.
